District Council Places With No AG Church Notes and Data Sources

Notes:

¹Places: The Census Bureau uses this term to refer to most cities, some towns, villages and boroughs; and defines a place as a concentration of population. This concentration of population must have a name, be locally recognized, and not be part of any other place. Places are broken into two categories: Incorporated Places and Census Designated Places.

²District Council Places: These places refer to communities in which this District Council does not have churches. Other AG districts (language or geographic) may have churches in these places.

³AG Church Places: Place names in the AG Church File may vary in spelling or punctuation from Census data. To confirm a place, or view the most current list of churches, please see the online AG Church Directory.

⁴Incorporated Places: An incorporated place is established to provide governmental functions for a concentration of people, as opposed to a Minor Civil Division (MCD), which generally is created to provide services or administer an area without regard, necessarily, to population. Places always are within a single state or equivalent entity, but may extend across county and county subdivision boundaries. An incorporated place usually is a city, town, village, or borough, but can have other legal descriptions. For Census Bureau purposes, incorporated places exclude boroughs in Alaska (these boroughs are treated as statistical equivalents of counties), towns in the New England states, New York, and Wisconsin (these towns are treated as MCDs), and boroughs in New York (these boroughs are treated as MCDs).

⁵Census Designated Places: Census Designated Places (CDPs) are the statistical counterparts of incorporated places, and are delineated to provide data for settled concentrations of population that are identifiable by name, but are not legally incorporated under the laws of the state in which they are located. These boundaries have no legal status. CDP boundaries may change from one decennial census to the next with changes in the settlement pattern. A CDP with the same name as in an earlier census does not necessarily have the same boundary. CDPs must be contained within a single state and may not extend into an incorporated place.

Hawaii is the only state that has no incorporated places recognized by the Census Bureau; all places are CDPs. In Puerto Rico, which also does not have incorporated places, the Census Bureau recognizes only CDPs and refers to them as comunidades or zonas urbanas. Guam also has only CDPs.
